industry, needed to be revived. Cooper echoed the comment.

Amodeo said he thought that the city needed to market itself better, calling Atlantic City International Airport "a diamond in the rough."

Brown also said there needs to be new, innovative approaches to the casino industry, saying otherwise it will stagnate.

Regarding working with other parties, all agreed bipartisanship is necessary. Tyner said if he couldn't be effective, he shouldn't be in the Legislature, while Cooper said the most important word was "compromise."
