Galloway Township, NJ – Jobs and property taxes are the top priorities of voters in the fall elections, according to a statewide poll released by the Stockton Polling Institute today.

K-12 education was cited by 7 percent, and education in general was cited by another 6 percent.

The statewide poll was conducted with 812 likely New Jersey voters from Sept. 15-21. Interviewers called both land lines and cell phones. The survey has a margin of error of +/-3.4 percent. The Stockton Polling Institute is part of the William J. Hughes Center for Public Policy at The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey.

“Pocketbook issues are on the minds of voters this election,” said Daniel J. Douglas, director of the Hughes Center. “People are concerned about jobs, taxes, and the economy.”

Still, a majority of 60 percent think the state is going in the right direction, while 27 percent believe the state has gotten off on the wrong track. Fourteen percent are unsure.
